300 Years of History - Texas Starts Here!

Nacogdoches, the oldest town in Texas, is named for the Caddo family of Indians who once lived in the area. Local legend tells of a Caddo chief, living near the Sabine River, who sent his young adult twin sons in opposite directions to establish their own tribes. One brother, Natchitoches, traveled three days east toward the rising sun. The other brother, Nacogdoches, traveled three days west toward the setting sun. Settled in their new communities, the two brothers remained friendly and the road between them was well traveled. The road became a trade route and the eastern end of El Camino Real. Nacogdoches remained a Caddo Indian settlement until 1716 when Spain established the mission Nuestra Senora de Guadalupe de los Nacogdoches. In 1779, Antonio Gil Y'Barbo, a prominent Spanish trader, led a group of settlers to Nacogdoches. That same year, Nacogdoches received designation from Spain as a pueblo, or town, thereby making it the first "town" in Texas. Y'Barbo was named Lt. Governor of the new town and established the rules and laws under which the city was governed. He laid out streets with the intersecting El Camino Real and El Calle del Norte as his central point. On the main thoroughfare he built a stone house for use in his trading business. The house, or Old Stone Fort as it is called today, became a gateway from the United States to the vast Texas Frontier.

Welcome To The Oldest Town in Texas

THE NINE FLAGS

During the four decades following the town's early development, Nacogdoches and the Old Stone Fort became the site of three failed attempts to establish a Republic of Texas - the Magee-Gutierrez (1812), Long (1819) and Fredonia (1826) rebellions. Thus, nine flags have flown over Nacogdoches as opposed to the six that have flown over Texas.

THE GARDEN CAPITAL OF TEXAS

Discover why Nacogdoches has been designated by the Texas Legislature as the Garden Capital of Texas. From the largest azalea garden in the state to fall foliage and flowering trails that appear at almost every turn, Nacogdoches offers year-round beauty to the casual observer and the most serious gardner alike.

FUN FOR EVERY SEASON

From the dazzling spring Azalea Trail to the spectacle of fall foliage, the Garden Capital of Texas offers fun for every season. Festivals, live music and one-of-a-kind events fill the calendar and showcase the multiple personalities of this historic icon. Whether it's an old fashioned sugar cane celebration or a downtown wine swirl or wassail fest, you'll find something spectacular going on year-round in Texas' oldest town.
